On behalf of guest researcher & lecturer Silvia de Cesare:

Dear all,

two philosophical events will take place in Utrecht (University Library city center) on the 24th and 25th September.

On the 24th, at 16:30, we will have the privilege to host Pr. Daniel McShea (Duke University) and to explore the different facets of his view on life sciences.

On the 25th, a one-day workshop will take place starting from 9:30: "Can "One Health" be more than a slogan? Philosophical perspectives on health and the environment"

Here is a short description of the workshop:

The "One Health" approach, promoted since 2000 by international institutions such as the World Health Organization (WHO), emphasizes the interdependence between human health, animal health and the global ecological state of the planet. Despite the increasing endorsement of "One Health" in health and environmental policies, some unsolved conceptual confusions and practical difficulties are at present embedded in the approach. This one-day workshop aims at examining those confusions and difficulties in a philosophical perspective, in order to assess whether "One Health" can be more than a slogan.

Both events are sponsored by the Swiss National Science Foundation and the Descartes Center.

There are no participation fees, but for the 25th registration is required through this link:

Best regards,

Silvia De Cesare
